Resources to help you with your financial education program on your campus

by Lisa Talbot, Financial Wellness Committee

If you missed the recent MASFAA conference, then you missed some great sessions! Monica Blondin and Sarah Bergeron from Assumption University presented a two-part session on, "You Don't Have to Do it all."

The first part session was a focus on how they implemented their financial education program they started on their campus by tapping into external resources from community partnerships. Following their remarks, they asked several of their community partners to speak about the different financial education topics that can be presented. At the end of the session, they distributed a complete list of the financial education topics which can be used to assist you in meeting your financial education program goals. They have agreed to share this complete list of topics. Please click on this link which will direct you to the MASFAA Financial Wellness Page to locate this listing.

This session was a great illustration how you can work together with your community partners to achieve success on your campus and not have to do a lot of heavy lifting.
